The Council of Economic Advisors, U.S. Department of the Treasury

Dear Mr. Goolsbee:

I am pleased to have the opportunity to discuss the results of our research with you.

Our research shows that the economy has grown at a steady pace over the past several years.

The labor market has improved significantly, with unemployment rates falling and job openings increasing.

However, there are still challenges ahead, particularly in the areas of income inequality and infrastructure investment.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Sincerely,
Davidson
