

QUEST.

FUND. GRADUATE

1. The curriculum should be designed to provide a broad base of knowledge and skills in the liberal arts and sciences, with a strong emphasis on the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

2. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

3. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

4. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

5. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

6. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

7. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

8. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

9. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

10. The curriculum should be designed to provide a strong foundation in the study of the human condition and the development of critical thinking and problem-solving abilities.

RECEIVED: _____
 Chancellor's / Provost's Office